We share in excitement the fourth edition of the Wings of the Coo newsletter. We hope through this newsletter, we can keep you informed about our latest achievements, successful efforts, news and messages. We also feature articles that help readers and volunteers understand the nature of our activities and overall strategies. We need more and more passionate volunteers who are willing to devote their skills and talents in various ways to help us tap into the latent potential of the cultural festival states to make happiness and prosperity worldwide. Evidently, humble learning is firmly embodied in the Sachi Foundation's culture and practices. Later in this newsletter you will see several of our volunteers introduce themselves and reflect on their commitment to the society and spreading happiness for all.

I hope you enjoy this edition and find it interesting and resourceful. Our editing team would love to hear your input on what you would like to add in the next issue. Please contact us for suggestions. You can send any queries to the Wings of the Coo editor team by emailing sachifoundation@gmail.com or visiting www.sachifoundation.org. Thank you.

Message from the board of Directors,

The board is thrilled to see the advancement and continuous growth of our lines of efforts. Thanks to the dedication, commitment and relentless effort of our volunteers, Sachi Foundation has passed another growth milestone. This time ten years ago, our foundation was established with a vision that cultures should play a critical and active role in delivering happiness for all. We are continuing to carry this vision through our lines of efforts to give cultures the tools to bring communities together and contribute towards the welfare and happiness of communities. Evidently, we need to plan for a new kind of culture and art of learning that is grounded in the response-receptive education principles and lead to collective action in the community. This means we must be engaged and invest in a culturally responsive learning network of tuition centers, learning providers, festival organizers, language and cultural groups, art and crafts workshops, community gardens and school communities that foster the collective lines of efforts and cultural discourses as a key dimension for sustainable development.

So, during these ten years, we have gradually developed a large number of quality discourse vehicles. The scale of the work has been unprecedented. We have encountered many significant challenges. For instance, in building the directory of cultural festival states- we found out the orientation of many cultural led programs and happenings are in exact opposite to the happiness inflows and outflows envisioned within the framework for action. We wondered, how could we then share our discourse fleets and entwine our efforts with other cultures, non-profit organizations and learning providers in order to serve the wider communities and take our happiness to new heights. The board decided to work on a small number of lines of activities as we believed this is the best strategies that ensure our continuous expansion and growth. We started with a very small number of activities that helped us to grow. We thought smiling can make every person feel wonderful and happy and is acceptable to every cultural festival states. Why not start with an online campaign with a few carefully selected discourse vehicles to share on social media that promote something as simple as smiling. This basic idea of starting practical and small scale social action and then promoting it by the use of response-receptive discourse style learning campaigns has proved to be a very helpful strategy.

The years 2019-2020 are going to be big for Sachi Foundation as we become partners with a number of learning providers, festival organizers and similar minded Nonprofit organizations in Australia, Japan, Pakistan and Peru. I am delighted to share with you the news that the board approved the necessary structural adjustments by initiating a management committee. This committee specifically address the practical implementation of the learning network efforts, the coordination of volunteers and our development needs.

In other news, we are saddened to learn that our cherished friend and dedicated volunteer coordinator and wings of the Coo editor Ms. Ryoko Sakamoto passed away on 27th of February 2019 in Fukuoka after a long battle with terminal cancer. We offer our sincere condolences and prayers to her family and friends.

We would also like to express our appreciation to Behjat Mojarrabi who resigned from her role as a board member for her hard work and commitment in building and growing Sachi Foundation. She will continue her tireless efforts by helping the newly established management committee cementing its agenda as well as being a volunteer coordinator working together with Chanthome Webster.

We warmly welcome Misa Oda Mojarrabi as our new board member effective from July 2019.

The board sends its greatest appreciation to our volunteers, staff and partners who as always continue supporting our efforts. Thank you.

The Board Secretary

Foundation news

Hello and welcome to the fourth edition of the “Wings of the Coo”. Happiness is abundant in this latest issue of the Wings of the Coo. We have had a very busy year with a large number of new volunteers joining us- not only from local areas but also from all parts of the world. More exciting is that they are coming from a wide range of cultural backgrounds that is great. Unity in Diversity is vital for our success. We have wonderful news and activities that we would like to share with you.

- We have ordered some t-shirts for our volunteers and supporters and if you would like to get one, please send us an email.
- Our bi-monthly regular clean up days have been successful local happenings in the Caboolture local community thanks to our volunteers who come and support our efforts to build on this important aspect of the Australian culture.

In September 2018, our volunteers put together an information stall at Matsuri Festival Brisbane, complete with handmade cultural artefacts and crafts. It was a fantastic effort and attracted a large number of festival goers seeking information about Sachi Foundation. As result of their successful effort, new volunteers joined our volunteer team. We are participating again in this festival in addition to the Japan Festival Sunshine Coast on Sunday August 11.

- In September 9, 2018, our sponsored research work on the global integration logistics systems was presented in an International conference. This work has subsequently been published in the high quality research Journal proceedings.
- The 4th growing season of the Tennen community garden in Ichikawa- Cho, Hyogo is being started. The garden often holds collaborating and joint gardening workshops with the other gardening communities to share the ancient permaculture wisdom and cultural traditions. Recently the garden hosted a successful workshop with two Hawaiian permaculture experts who demonstrated the latest local gardening knowledge as well as the traditional cultural techniques. Some of the photos are shown in the page 9.
- In Pakistan, Resource Centre for Development Alternative (RCDA) is doing an excellent job promoting our expectant mother projects phase I and Phase li. In November, we are going to start the expectant mother phase III.
- In September 2019, Our Sponsor research work on new world economy model is going to be presented in a major International scientific Conference.

We are so grateful for all of you who have done so much and are ready to help us more with their time and skills. In particular we send our biggest thank you to Tsugumi Mackintosh and Yae Oda for making beautiful cultural artifacts for the two forthcoming Japanese festivals in Brisbane and Sunshine Coast that hopefully everyone can participate.

Wishing you all the happiest and the best times ahead.

The Progress Evaluation 2018-2019 Report

Dear Friends, volunteers and well-wishers,

Sachi Foundation is the only global non-profit organization dedicated to building helpful resources for the Cultural festival states' to cultivate their total lines of efforts and stripes of actions for coherence farming of virtues as the shared means to drive the future of happiness for all mankind. The stock seeds for these stripes of actions grow on the self-similar, build-momentum and harvest festivals grounds. We aim to build the various tools and discourses for the coherence making processes and reconstruct the techniques and history of the entanglement farming, the gardening and nurseries of the cultural festival states. Our board initiated and build the first world directory of the cultural festival states. This year we have continued increasing the range and scope of the directory through our Unity Cultural center to further showcase the power of cultures to unite and brings a high degree of coherence into the community lines of total efforts. Secondly, We made our voices heard in the international scientific spaces and prestige journals as well as in local newspapers and cultural learning spaces. Thanks to the guidance we receive from the Universal House of Justice and with your continued support and experience, a few quality seed stocks of the virtue seeds within a community can turn entire communities into the entangled farmland of human virtues which then can be harvested for the sustainable human future of happiness and prosperity for all. This is the kind of happiness we aimed for as Dr Ali Muhammad Verqa asserted that the true dedication to the welfare and happiness of all mankind lies in the commitment where “the joy of one is the joy of all and the pain of one is the pain of all”. We are committed to carry forward this commitment through our best of efforts. The Sponsored Tennan community garden in Japan and expectant mother projects in Pakistan are testimony of this.

For us, there is no happier thought and reward than the opportunity to work with our trusting and affectionately happy volunteers, passionate alliance partners and insightful learning providers to find out how we can support a common language and culture that is conducive to the betterment of the economic, environment and society. If you share this vision with us, please consider joining us.

So, let's see how 2018-2019 really measured up with the best of our combined lines of efforts.

Research:

The majority of our grants were distributed in response to the school tuition applications that promotes and strengthen the community learning networks and supply chain of assertions that support global entanglement virtue farming and harvesting tasks . We also funded research on the global economic system and Unity language. We have also been asked to provide the funding for a new international research group with scientists from Australia, Nepal and Peru for the further research on the global integration systems. The grant committee submitted this application to the board for their consideration. The board has not yet made any decision in this regard.

The Self-Similar Twin Festival Celebration

Our Board member Yae is organizing Yosakoi Soran dance for the Celebration of the Twin Manifestation with support of the Japanese cultural group in Caboolture.

Mikoshi, Yatai Tomorrow Together Project,

We made major progress with this line of efforts. Our research team prepared and submitted a paper about the coherence making festivals, the global parade of the Yatai and Mikoshi and Australian dreaming manifest.

Expectant Mother Empowerment Project

We are going to initiate the phase three of the expectant mother project. In this project, we are promoting the grace of motherhood in the colors of leaves through passage of time mediated by the epsilon zero of change- the very insignificant alternative possibilities of the new born and his/hers virtues in action that brings new dimension of artistic consciousness to the world. This stage is embodied in the first cry of the new born and the grace of motherhood and wonderment and calmness of fatherhood. The campaign will start in early November 2019.

Volunteer Profiles:

The Sachi Foundation's volunteers are the most important foundation of our progress. Our volunteers lead the actions on the role of culture in making happiness worldwide. They come from many different cultural backgrounds and contribute to the Sachi Foundations' goals with their own ways of virtues in action and efforts. In this issue, we interviewed three of our volunteers to see what inspires them with their ongoing support of the Sachi Foundation mission.

Chanthome Webster,

Background : born in Laos, lives in Caboolture. First joined Sachi Foundation as a volunteer in 2016. She is working as a volunteer coordinator now and just appointed as a member of the Sachi Foundation management committee.

What you enjoy doing volunteering work with the Sachi Foundation?

I enjoyed because there is an exciting charm with the ambassador of Happiness concept that goes well with the assertions of values that our virtues in action brings. For me, the virtues in action answers two important questions: are you happy and did you make others happy? It takes the whole connective entangled farms of virtues to raise and sustain happiness for a whole community. We need to support each other and that requires to give our happiness away like a lamp who gives the light away. Happiness harvested from entangled virtue farms lifts up the community spirit and helps to get to know the deeper insights about each other cultures and experience the richness of happiness for all. These are what I enjoy the most.

Sofia

Background:. Love volunteering work, First joined the Sachi Foundation through clean up Australia day.

What you enjoy doing volunteering work with the Sachi Foundation? I particularly enjoy the Sachi foundation's effort to bring together all different the cultural groups to work together as a dream team to spread happiness and peace. I have so much fun working with other peoples from other cultures like a volunteer dream team to spread common joy and happiness. In this way we learn from each other, build capacity and raise the happiness of the community. I get real joy and fulfilment working with others in such a way.

Ai Atsumi

Background: born in Japan, lives in Japan. Loves the concept of virtues in action and virtue entanglement. First joined the Sachi Foundation through its learning network as a Japanese language Tutor.

What you enjoy doing volunteering work with the Sachi Foundation? I am very attracted to the Sachi Foundation concept of intuition, total lines of effort and community transformation through virtues in dynamic action.

I realize that happiness is a jigsaw puzzle that you search inside and outside for the clue. The clues may be outside but only up to certain level. You really need to take care of yourself, and do all the heart beat drumming you need in life to learn how to assert your virtues within.

Dear friends, we are very excited by what we can all achieve together with the knowledge and practices of virtue entanglement farming that will help to make happiness worldwide. We love to hear any recommendations or suggestions that further improve our ways of spreading joy and happiness. Thank you all.

Help Yourself to happiness!

*Everybody, everywhere seeks happiness, it's true,
But finding it and keeping it seems difficult to do.
Difficult because we think that happiness is found
Only in the places where wealth and fame abound.
And so we go on searching in palaces of pleasure
Seeking recognition and monetary treasure,
Unaware that happiness is just a state of mind
Within the reach of everyone who takes time to be kind.
For in making others happy we will be happy, too.
For the happiness you give away returns to shine on you.*

One of Sachi's favorite Prayers

O God! Refresh and gladden my spirit. Purify my heart. Illumine my powers. I lay all my affairs in Thy hand. Thou art my Guide and my Refuge. I will no longer be sorrowful and grieved; I will be a happy and joyful being. O God! I will no longer be full of anxiety, nor will I let trouble harass me. I will not dwell on the unpleasant things of life. O God! Thou art more friend to me than I am to myself. I dedicate myself to Thee, O Lord. Abdu'l-Bahá
